The Bollvar Coal is unquestionably superior to any other mined in Olio, for Grace, Blacksmithing, Michinery, or Domestic purposes; and for Steam purposes, is supered to any except Brian Hill. Bausers, May 20, 1852.

We were especially fortunate in selecting the saly fair day in nearly a month for our descent of the Phine. A River whose beauties have been so often said and suig that I shall content myself with having seen them. As a River merely, or as a River connected with its Scenery, it is for less interesting than many of our own. But with its Vineyards, its Castles and its 'Associations, its beauty and sublimity sie beyond all comparison. Though a kiver several hundred miles in length, its principal interest lies between Reddelberg and Cologue, all of which is seen in nine hours, the Stenner down the River being sided by a current of four or five miles to the hour.

We tarried a day at Cologue. Here you know by an immente Cuthedral—which has been several centuries in the process of erection, and the conspletion of which will require other centuries,—in which are preserved the bones of four thousand Christian Martyrs. Among other things we visited the Diouse in which the Mother of N suo living which Regess was born. We purchastered in which Regess was born.

ed and in which REDESS was bounded, as creey body who comes here does, "real," genuine," "unadultersted" Cologne Water, of othe successors of the original invostors of the liquid.

The great thoroughfare of Cologne is a Bridge of Boats seroes the Rhine, with an opening or draw on either end, through which Vessels are passes without much delay or inconvenience. The Docks and principal streets show that Cologne is an enterprising and thrifty, but most unstructive and dirty City, though we passed the evening pleasantly enough, in a Garden, where the People listen to the discourse of an eloquent Prussian Band and drink "May Wine." a buyer of the Docks and principal streets show that Cologne compounded of various ingredients, and resembling our "Sherry Cobblera."

The Mother and Sisters of Kosseru, whom we saw at Dresden, rested here a day or two. Our fixed Dr Wirr, who had an agreeable interview with them, says that the old Lady, who is quite infirm, has not yet decided appon going to America, though she is most anxious to do so, and is green from Ostand to England, where she is to zwint the arrival of the Governor.

We came from Cologne to Brussels by Railway in twelve hours, stopping just long enough at Airia-la-Chapelle to glance at the town so distinguished in different Centuries, for the assemblages of Sovereigns to discuss and shape the destinies of Europe. It is now much more profitably emplayed in working up the Iron with which its mountains abound. And all through Belgium we were desighted with evidences of enterprise and industry, and cranifestitions of prosperity and happiness which belong not, in any such degree, to the other portions of Europe. In all time, and every vicial indention of the rich definese of every hindrance, the People of nuclent Flunders, no matter what Wars raged or what Dospot reigned, were distinguished for their indomitable industry. For ages Belgium was a sort of middle [but nover neutral] ground, upon which the Armiser of conteoding nations were quartered. Though ever exhausting, of the richest nations in the World. Not are these their enty identifies. They enjoy the blessings of a well administered Government. They have a good Eiog, and had a good Queen, both of whom they have the proposition of the Palace, and the latter of whom they have summoned to the Palace, and to the Palace, and to the places, and to the places and place the places of the Queen, that if the people desired a change be would save them from the toots and consequences of civil war by voluntary abdication. This put out the Revolutionary fires the age; and Belgium went peacefully onward the places of the places and to the places and to the places and the places and to the places and the places and to the places and the places and to the places and the party which has nominated Messrs. The Ladies visited the principal lace Manufactory, where the Brussels article is made and sold for sums of money that, would frighten prudent people. What do you think, for example, of friming a dress with face at $250 and $300 a yard? But just now the rage is for Old Lace. In Florence, Rome, Naples, Venice, de., de., traffic in Old Lace is very active. Ladies look for it with more solicitands than any other article of dress. Neither Jewelry or Precious Stones are so much prized as Lace known to have been worn by a Cardinal or a Monk a century or two age. No Lady thinks of leaving Italy without securing some of these precious spoils. Of course, the supply of Old Lace keeps pace with the rapidly increasing demand! How much of it is genized will not undertake to say. Every Lady is quite sure that she can detect the Antique from the Modern.

will not undertake to say. Every Lady is quite sure that she can detect the Antique from the Modern.

We san down to Antwerp, for there, even after italy has been explored, there is one Church (St. Jacques) and a Gullery of Paintings, well worth socing. As elsewhere, the best Pictures of the old Masters are to be found where they had a hearth and a home, and were surrounded by household influences. Rusens, though born upon the Rhine, lived suid died at Antwerp, where, in a Chapel of the Church of St. Jacques, are splendid Marble tributes to his memory.

In the Museum or Town Hall of Antwerp, is a very valuable collection of Paintings by all the old Flemish Mastera. We did not see Rusens' "Descent from the Cross," which is his greatest and best, it having been taken down for repairs. But his "Crucifixion," in all ite painful and harrowing effect was there. This picture makes the blood chill and the flesh shiver. In the lamb-like meckness of the dying Saviour, and the withing aronies of the two Thieres, this Picture is frightfully real.

No American should go to Antwerp without making the acquaintance of Mr. Verry, our Consult there, who, beside being a Model Consul, is in every sense a Gentleman. In all that is to be seen, and all that you want to purchase, Mr. Verry, sartentions and assistance are so cheerfully given that you do not heattate to accept them. While rendering you essential service, in the purchase of pictures, Laces, fic., he won't let you feel any sense of obligation. Indeed, unless you watch him chosely, he will be giving you his own Pictures, or if you need them, his own Clothes, and he would "divide his last crust" with any body. But he finds time to discharge his official duties with intelligence and fidelity. As, however, he is a New Yorker, and is quite sure to give away all the propages of his office, I take leave to commend him (in case any Administration should be guilty of the influence of the commend him (in case any Administration abould be guilty of the lates the total commend the co last twenty years, is full of examples of the indifterence, if not hostility, with which the peculiar interests of the Great West have been regarded and treated at Washington. Congress after Congress has met and adjourned; one administration has succeeded another; change upon change has occurred in the National Councils, and yet, with rare and immaterial exceptions, the West, throughout all these mutations, has seen its interests negleated, its rights trampled upon, and its repeated That is the right spirit! and not only that, but rided, or denied. Hitherto, the West has had neither the strength, not the opportunity to enforce its just claims upon the General Government; but now both are at its command. In the pending Presidential contest, the people of the Korth West, if true to themsolves, can compel the justice which they have heretofore demanded in which they have heretofore demanded in the national policy as shall secure to the West at least an equal share in the benefits, as well as the burdens of the General Government. Milwankae to-night 1 DISINTERESTED WITNESS.—Some of our demoeratic friends will probably be glad to see what the veteran. Sather Ritchie thinks of Winfield Scot: 25 a 30 lifes and civilian. The following extract from one of his editorials, commenting on the taste of the Whigs in selecting General Taylor as their candidate in 1845, speaks upon both points. It is from the Washington Union of 1848:

Oen. Scott is an oldersoldier than Gen. Taylor—one who is at least equally, if not more accomplished, and who has distinguished himself by more and as brilliant battles during the war—who captured Vera Cruz, and the Castle, and the capital of Mexico—and one, too, who has more the qualities of a civilian, and is better known as a Whig. This celebrated medicine is one of the very best in the country, and its good qualities only need to be known, to give it precedence over all others now in use. We have seen its good effects lately, after the total failure of many others. This is saying more than we can for any other medicine within our knowledge, and we field a duty to Sattinets, Fiannels, Diapers, Colored Combries, cross parred Jaconetts, with a variety of sundry articles, too actions to enumerate. CALEB WALL City Auction Room.
